

OHM's 20-Year Reputation For Environmental Services Excellence Came About Rather Suddenly.

OHM's successful response to a 1989 oil spill which spread more than 300,000 gallons of No. 6 oil over a 30 mile area of the Delaware River near Philadelphia involved 220 people working 24 hours a day and was directed from two special command posts.

OHM is the company of choice on a national basis to call when you have an environmental emergency. OHM can quickly mobilize the correct response because of its experience on more than 10,000 projects throughout North America, and because it offers more than 2,000 environmental specialists and technicians, 1,200 pieces of customized mobile equipment, and 30 locations coast to coast... including 3 operational offices here in Northern and Southern California.

In the aftermath of an emergency... whether it's an oil spill, a transportation accident, a plant upset, or a leaking drum... OHM provides a combination of skill and superior technology to resolve your problem. The result? Public, environmentalist, and law enforcement confidence that you have secured the premier company to manage your crisis.
